Exam

Dates: May 3 to May 14

College Board announced that students will not be charged a fee for an unused test this year. That means if you sign up and pay for the exam in November (or February for 2nd semester only classes) and then decide not to take the exam, you will get 'almost' a full refund--you will pay $7 total for credit card processing.

AP has not definitively said how tests will be administered this year--in person or online. That information will be sent out as soon as it is released. However, it will likely not be decided until sometime in the Spring.
